The High Road School of Richmond is a specialized alternative educational school for middle school and high school students experiencing educational difficulties compounded by an emotional or behavioral component.

The highlights of our unique educational model include: small class sizes, one-to-one teacher-student interaction, tutorial-based learning, computerized tools and resources (with a variety of instructional materials), and vocational training. Staff members are fully qualified and trained to meet each individual student’s learning needs and style.

Our school’s warm, supportive environment is enhanced by a structured behavioral management system that promotes accountability and reinforces positive performance. And although we strive to make our curriculums diverse and fun to maximize student engagement, we consistently emphasize mastery of core academic skills and essential social skills, since they will best serve our students in their adult lives.

For those lives, we prepare our students to be self-sufficient and productive members of society, both before and after graduation, by imparting — every day — the value of responsible citizenship, the importance of self-esteem and self-confidence, and the endless rewards of a lifetime of learning.
